

eric magar <emagar@gmail.com>

Fwd: Your Submission

Sin, Gisela <gsin@illinois.edu>

Mon, Dec 23, 2019 at 12:20 PM

To: VALERIA PALANZA <vpalanza@uc.cl>, eric magar <emagar@itam.mx>

Merry Christmas!!

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Jeffery A. Jenkins" <em@editorialmanager.com>Date: December 23, 2019 at 13:02:59 ESTTo: "Sin, Gisela" <gsin@illinois.edu>Subject: Your SubmissionReply-To: "Jeffery A. Jenkins" <jajenkins@usc.edu>CC: jop@usc.edu

Ref.: Ms. No. 182014R2

Presidents on the Fast Track: Fighting Floor Amendments with Restrictive Rules

The Journal of Politics

Dear Gisela,

I have reviewed the final revisions you have made to your manuscript, Number 182014R2, "Presidents on the Fast Track: Fighting Floor Amendments with Restrictive Rules," and am delighted to accept this as the final version of the paper to be published in The Journal of Politics. Congratulations!

Once I have forwarded your manuscript, our copy editor will be in contact with you about any final issues that need to be resolved. Our contract with the University of Chicago Press requires that we follow the guidelines of the APSR Style Guide and the Chicago Manual of Style. I understand that you won't always agree with those style guides on certain issues (hyphenation, for example), but we are required to copyedit every manuscript so it is compliance with the JOP style.

Although I cannot tell you the precise issue in which your paper will appear, my best guess is that it will be published in the second (April) issue of 2021.

You should be hearing from the copy editor or receiving page proofs a few months before your paper appears in print. As soon as the final manuscript is copyedited, approved, and typeset, it will be posted online by the University of Chicago Press in the JOP's "Ahead of Print" section. Once the paper is published in the JOP, you will be sent a new PDF with volume, issue, and page number details. Citations to the published version of the article should follow conventional rules for journal articles.

Please don't hesitate to contact me with any questions or concerns you may have about the publication process.

Again, congratulations on your forthcoming publication in the JOP! I am delighted to be publishing this interesting work.

Sincerely,

Jeff Jenkins
Editor in Chief

In compliance with data protection regulations, you may request that we remove your personal registration details at any time. (Use the following URL: <https://www.editorialmanager.com/jop/login.asp?a=r>). Please contact the publication office if you have any questions.